Not illustrated. 1778 Excerpt: ... blessd To sapience, hitherto obscurd, infamd, And thy fair fruit let hang, as to no end Created; but henceforth my early care, Not without song, each morning and due praise, Shall tend thee, and the fertil burden ease 801 Of thy full branches offerd free to all; Till dieted by thee I grow mature In knowledge, as the gods who all things know; Though others envy what they cannot give; 805 For had the gift been theirs, it had not here Thus grown. Experience, next to thee I owe, Best guide; not following thee I had remained In ignorance; thou openst wisdoms way, And givst access, though secret she retire, 810 And I perhaps am secret; Heavn is high, High, and remote to see from thence distinf Each thing on Earth; and other care perhaps May have diverted from continual watch Our great Forbidder, safe with all his spies 815 About him. But to Adam in what sort Shall I appear? shall I to him make known As yet my change, and give him to partake Full happiness with me, or rather not, But keep the odds of knowledge in my power 820 Without copartner? so to add what wants In female sex, the more to draw his love, And render me more equal, and perhaps, A thing not undesirable, sometime Superior; for inferior who is free; 825 This may be well: but what if God have seen, And death ensue? then I shall be no more, And Adam wedded to another Eve, Shall live with her enjoying, I extinf; A death to think. Confirmd then I resolve, 830 Adam shall share with me in bliss or woe: So dear I love him, that with him all deaths I could endure, without him live no life. So saying, from the tree her step she turnd, But first low reverence done, as to the power 835 That dwelt within, whose presence had infusd Into the plant sciential sap, derivd From neftar, drink of gods.
